Future Point of View to Become TriCorps Technologies

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK - In order to create the most comprehensive and holistic integrated security and digital strategy firm in the marketplace today, Future Point of View and TriCorps Cybersecurity are announcing a new merger under the banner of TriCorps Technologies.

“TriCorps Technologies will allow us to provide our clients with a greater array of services to meet the challenges they will face today and tomorrow,” says Scott Klososky, a founding partner of TriCorps Technologies.

TriCorps Technologies will focus on helping clients raise revenue and lower costs through its digital strategy offerings. Additionally, it will partner with renowned physical security firm TriCorps Security to help clients protect their resources in the digital world as well as in the physical world. A revolutionary integrated security model will focus on three pillars of security: physical security, surveillance, and cybersecurity.

“It is no longer okay to have your physical security and your cybersecurity siloed,” says Klososky. “They need to be working in tandem to completely protect organizations.

You can see a full list of the services offered by TriCorps Technologies by navigating to its new website TriCorpsTechnologies.com.

TriCorps will also be looking toward the future to help clients anticipate trends that will impact their industries and organizations.

“What is happening in automation and machine intelligence right now is groundbreaking,” says Klososky. We want to educate organizations on how they can use machine intelligence to grow stronger, to understand what is possible when you combine automation, artificial intelligence, robotics, natural language processing, and machine learning. We want our clients to realize the potential to improve the way they serve customers, automate processes, and really keep data and assets safe.”
